FNC endorses bill to regulate notary public profession

(Wam) / 11 January 2013

The Federal national Council has endorsed a draft law on regulation of the profession of the notary public, after discussing and suggesting amendments to the original draft.

During its 3rd session of the second term of its 15th legislative chapter, held on 11 December 2012, the FNC emphasised the importance of developing and regulating the profession of the notary public, to cope with the growing needs for contracts, affidavits and other documents in today's different transactions.

The law is aimed at regulating the profession and defining practices, responsibilities, powers and restrictions for the notary public profession.
